

Current Accounts

Boost Member Engagement

By offering Current Accounts, you can boost member engagement with your Credit Union. The more members transact with you, the more likely they are to utilise more of your services, such as loans. In fact, research shows that 77% of the Irish public and 82% of the UK public use their Current Accounts at least once a week.

Customer Success

“By enabling our members to do more with their Credit Union, we are delivering an even better member experience and also generating more opportunities for other services, such as overdrafts and loans. This in turn will help us attract new members to keep remaining sustainable. Credit Unions are already the most trusted financial services provider in the country and we’re delighted to offer our members even more choice when it comes to their essential banking needs.”
